

Transcription of Georgian Papers, GEO/MAIN/3990

© Georgian Papers Programme 2018

My last Dispatches from Paris happily discover a secret Plot against your Majesty's Life.

Necker having been authentically assured, Sir, that you have been seen walking in Disguise, at a very late hour in the Night. From the Upper End of the Queen's garden quite across into the Deputy-Ranger's Lodge, hath pitched upon that Place as the most favourable Spot for the Execution of his horrid & blood-thirsty Machination.

Aristarchus

Nov. 1. 1780

No. 30